Focus on the Environment

ENVIRONMENTAL COMPETITION FOR PRIMARY SCHOOL CHILDREN IN MUNSTER 2018

SHERKIN ISLAND MARINE STATION

This is the twenty-first year of Sherkin Island Marine Station's environmental competition for primary school children in Munster. The entries we receive year after year continue to enthral us and we really appreciate the effort put into them. This year we would love if you could focus on your environment once again and send us your thoughts on why it is so important to you.

Our environment is precious to all of us but with all the waste we produce everyday, it is in danger of being damaged. Your help is needed to come up with ideas on how to protect the environment so we can safeguard it for years to come. While some may want to draw attention to pollution, blue flag beaches or encourage recycling, creatures such as butterflies or mammals may fascinate others. Whatever is important to you, we would love to hear about it, whether in the form of a picture or project.

We are particularly impressed by entries that include your own thoughts, ideas and drawings.

Without the continued support of our sponsors, for which we are very grateful, this competition would not be possible. Over 400 prizes have been specially chosen to help you continue your study of nature and the environment, build up your knowledge and explore even more.

Please continue looking after your environment and keep sending us your wonderful work. We hope that you enjoy working on them as much as we enjoy receiving them.

Matt Murphy
